SPRING 2013 • SPECIAL EDITION

25,000 Union Jobs by 2015

The AFL-CIO Housing Investment Trust has created more than 16,000 union construction jobs in the last four years – helping to put America back to work.

Now the HIT has raised its goal: to reach 25,000 union construction jobs by 2015.

BCTD President Sean McGarvey, at the HIT’s Board of Trustees meeting in March, urged the HIT to expand its Construction Jobs Initiative and set a new goal of creating 25,000 union construction jobs by 2015.

“Nobody knows better than the building trades what the country’s been through the last four years,” said President McGarvey. “We’re thankful that you’re here for us, and we’ll continue to have confidence and invest in the Housing Investment Trust.”

Pension capital invested through the HIT’s Construction Jobs Initiative is helping build our communities the union way – using union pension capital and 100% union labor to benefit communities where union members live and work. This is a model of responsible investing.

60 Projects Funded in 29 Cities

Union construction jobs: 16,800
HIT commitments: $1.5B
Total development value: $3.3B

When the Obama administration came to Washington in 2009, the White House asked union leaders to help forge an economic recovery plan. With strong support from the Building and Construction Trades Department, the AFL-CIO Housing Investment Trust responded with its Construction Jobs Initiative, using union pension capital to create jobs and support the economic recovery.

From its initial goal of creating 10,000 union construction jobs, the HIT has twice expanded the initiative after achieving its job creation goals, and is now working to reach a new target of 25,000 union jobs by 2015. The Building and Construction Trades unions have made this success possible through their investments of pension capital in the HIT.

To date, the Construction Jobs Initiative has created more than 16,800 union construction jobs on nearly 60 projects in 29 cities from coast to coast, with financing from the HIT and its subsidiary, Building America.

THANK YOU TO THE BUILDING TRADES for helping the HIT create 16,800 union construction jobs in the last four years under our Construction Jobs Initiative. Your investments and your grassroots support have been key to this success. We hear you when you say that times continue to be difficult in the construction industry. Our commitment to you is that we will continue to carry out our successful investment strategy, delivering competitive returns to our investors and moving forward to reach our new job creation goal of 25,000 union construction jobs by 2015.
